

Her heart is in community, but her dreams are international, and they are coming true.

Jill Setah has been invited to be part of a charity fashion show at the Oxford University Museum of Natural History on February 24 (2023). It will raise money for UNICEF and the Prince's Trust

"I am fundraising money to attend Night at the Museum: Guided Glamour Charity Gala at the Natural History Museum in the UK. I was invited to be a featured designer during their fashion show at the Gala. It is extremely important to me to attend to share my Indigenous culture through fashion."

"it's huge to go and be able to hold my Every Child Matters flags in front of that church,"

Indigenous Boss